TO: School District Superintendents
Principals
K-12 Counselors
K-12 Teachers

FROM: Brent Bacon, Chief Academic Officer

DATE: January 17, 2017

SUBJECT: Project ECHO in Career Development Launching January 23

PROJECT ECHO IN CAREER DEVELOPMENT LAUNCHING JANUARY 23

The Wyoming Department of Education, University of Wyoming, and education stakeholders from across Wyoming have partnered to develop and deliver a series of Project ECHO® sessions specifically focused on Career Development programming, resources, ideas and tools that can be implemented in the classroom. These sessions are delivered via videoconference, and are accessible with a computer and/or telephone. The sessions are free to attend.

This opportunity allows K-12 Career & Technical Education instructors, afterschool providers, school counselors, administrators, Career Development Facilitators and others in Wyoming schools to develop knowledge and collect resources necessary for quality career development programming. Also, ECHO provides a unique opportunity for Wyoming school counselors and educators to build a professional statewide network from the comfort of their office, classroom or home. Twelve weekly sessions will occur throughout the 2017 spring semester on a variety of relevant Career Development topics. Participants will have the opportunity to earn professional development credit toward maintaining teacher certification, as well as University of Wyoming graduate credit.

Weekly ECHO sessions will occur every Monday (with the exceptions of holidays) from 3:45-5:00 p.m., beginning Monday, January 23, 2017. For the full schedule and connection information, visit: www.uwyo.edu/wind/echo/cd
